1) Reference is made to the following documents:

D1 = JP 11066611 A

D2 = JP 10293942 A

D3 = KR 1998-025025 A

2) The present invention relates to a optical recording medium, magneto-optic recording medium, recording method, and a recording/reproducing apparatus for said recording medium.

3) D1 relates to an optical recording medium comprising: a substrate; a dielectric layer; a recording layer; and a reflecting layer, which is characterized by altering the absorption rate of the recording layer and a phase transition by a laser beam.

4) D2 relates to an optical information recording media comprising: a transmissible substrate; a phase change recording layer; a transparent protective layer; and a reflection layer. D2 is a new optical disk which assures high-density recording, reproducing and erasing. This recording layer comprises metal using rare earth elements such as Tb, Gd, Dy and Ho, and transion metals such as Fe, Co and Ni.

5) D3 is a magneto-optic recording medium, recording method and a magneto-optic recording apparatus comprising: a dielectric layer, a recording layer and a recording supplementary layer. D3 is characterized by a reduction of the recording magnetic field. The recording layer comprises DyFeCo and GdFeCo, and a information is recorded by change of spin direction, by means of an external magnetic field.

Continuation of:

6) Claim 1 of the present invention relates to a phase change method of recording information on a recording medium by changing absorption coefficients of optical constants of the recording layer and the dielectric layer of the recording medium. D1 also is an optical recording medium related to a phase change by changing the absorption rate by a laser beam. Therefore, Claim 1 is the same invention as D1.

Claims 23 and 45 of the present invention relate to a recording medium and an information recording apparatus using a recording medium manufactured by the above Claim 1 and recording medium. Those characteristics are also the same as D1.

Claims 9, 11-13, 31, 33-35, 53 and 55-57 of the present invention are a magneto-optical method, a recording medium, and a recording apparatus which comprised of recording layer and a dielectric layer and record information by change of spin direction; and magneto-optic recording method which records information by change of spin direction by an external magnetic field; a recording medium; a recording apparatus which records information using the above magneto-optic recording medium.

D3 comprises a dielectric layer and a recording layer. It relates to a magneto-optic recording medium comprised of transition metal using rare earth elements and a magneto-optic recording apparatus. Therefore, Claims 9, 11-13, 31, 33-35, 53 and 55-57 are similar to D3.

Accordingly, Claims 1, 9, 11-13, 23, 31, 33-35, 45, 53 and 55-57 are not considered to be novel.

7) Claims 2-4, 24-26 and 46-48 characterizes a recording layer comprising transition metal using rare earth elements, and alloy of metals using rare earth elements and a transition metal. These materials are the same as those of a recording layer which is described in D2 and D3. Therefore, Claims 2-4, 24-26 and 46-48 are easy for a person skilled in this art part to arrive at by selecting material of a recording layer which is described in D1-D3.

8) From the above comparisons, Claims 1, 9, 11-13, 23, 31, 33-35, 45, 53 and 55-57 are not considered to be novel. Claims 2-8, 10, 14-22, 24-30, 32, 36-44, 46-52, 54 and 58-66 are considered to be novel(PCT Article 33(2)).

Claims 2-4, 24-26 and 46-48 are easy for a skilled person to arrive at by the components of D1-D3. Therefore, they are not considered to involve an inventive step(PCT Article 33(3)).

Claims 1-66 are considered to be industrially applicable(PCT Article 33(4)).
